7 WAYS LOCAL BUSINESSES LOSE LEADS

And how to fix them this week.

A free guide from Simple Solutions Marketing.

For dental and medical offices, med spas, solar and roofing, HVAC and plumbing.

Intro

You work hard to get people to call, click or fill out a form. Then some disappear.

Often, the problem happens between "interested" and "booked." A call gets missed. A form sits too long. A website makes the next step hard to find. A lead gets one reply and no follow-up.

When each patient or job matters, those gaps matter too.

This guide covers 7 common leaks we look for first. Each one includes:

- The problem.
- Why it costs leads.
- Something you can fix this week.
- Where Simple Solutions Marketing can help.

Read it once. Check what you already do. Then choose one leak to fix first.

Leaks 1-2

1 Leak 1: Missed calls

PROBLEM.	The phone rings while you're with a patient, on a roof or under a sink. Nobody answers.
WHY IT COSTS LEADS.	A caller who can't reach you may not leave a message. They can call the next business on the list just as easily.
FIX THIS WEEK.	Set a voicemail that tells people when you'll call back. Block two times each day to return missed calls. Keep one list of every call that needs a response.
WHERE WE CAN HELP.	We set up missed-call text-back. When you miss a call, the caller can get a friendly text right away. You can continue the conversation when you're available.

2 Leak 2: Slow replies

PROBLEM.	A form or message comes in. Nobody answers until tomorrow. Sometimes longer.
WHY IT COSTS LEADS.	Someone who reaches out may be asking other businesses too. A fast, clear answer helps you stay in the running.
FIX THIS WEEK.	Choose one person to own new leads. Write three short replies for your most common questions. Turn on notifications for every place a new lead can come in.
WHERE WE CAN HELP.	We set up instant responses and lead follow-up. We can help you set up a simple AI assistant to answer common questions and save you time. We start small and keep you in control.

Leaks 3-4

3 Leak 3: Weak Google Business Profile or reviews

PROBLEM.	Your Google Business Profile has old hours, few photos, a thin description or few recent reviews.
WHY IT COSTS LEADS.	For local searches, your Google profile is often one of the first places people see your business. Old or incomplete information can make the next step harder.
FIX THIS WEEK.	Check your hours, phone number, services and service area. Add five recent photos. Ask three happy customers for a review. Reply to the reviews you already have.
WHERE WE CAN HELP.	We help clean up your profile. We can also help you build a simple process for asking for reviews consistently.

4 Leak 4: A website that's hard to use on a phone

PROBLEM.	Your phone number is hard to find. Buttons are too small. Pages load slowly. The next step is not obvious.
WHY IT COSTS LEADS.	If someone finds you on a phone, the site should make the next step easy. Don't make them hunt for your number or zoom in to tap a button.
FIX THIS WEEK.	Open your website on your phone. Ask: • Can you find the phone number quickly? • Can you tap it to call? • Does the page clearly say what you do? • Does it say where you work? • Is there one clear next step? Every "no" goes on your to-do list.
WHERE WE CAN HELP.	We build clean, mobile-first websites. The goal is to make it simple for someone to call, text or book.

Leak 5

5 Leak 5: Ads that send people to your homepage

PROBLEM.	Someone clicks an ad for one service. Then they land on a general homepage with menus, links and several choices.
WHY IT COSTS LEADS.	They clicked because they wanted one specific thing. If they have to search for it again, you create extra friction.
FIX THIS WEEK.	Look at every ad you're running. Ask: • Does this ad go to a page about the exact service being advertised? • Is the offer easy to understand? • Is there one clear next step? If not, write down where that ad should send people instead.
WHERE WE CAN HELP.	We run Meta and Google ads. As part of our websites service, we build focused landing pages that match the message in each ad.

Leaks 6-7

6 Leak 6: No follow-up

PROBLEM.	A lead asks a question. They get one reply. Then the conversation stops. Nobody checks back.
WHY IT COSTS LEADS.	A quiet lead is not always an uninterested lead. People get busy. They forget. One reply may not be enough to move the conversation forward.
FIX THIS WEEK.	Create a simple follow-up plan with at least 3 follow-ups. Send one check-in the next business day. Follow up again a few days later. Then send one final friendly message. Write the messages once so your team can reuse them.
WHERE WE CAN HELP.	We set up lead follow-up, so every lead gets a clear next step.

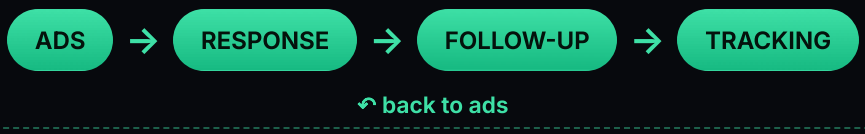

7 Leak 7: No lead tracking

PROBLEM.	Some leads are in your phone. Others are in email, a notebook, or Facebook and Instagram messages. There is no single place to see them all.
WHY IT COSTS LEADS.	If you can't see where leads came from or what happened next, it's hard to know which parts of your marketing need attention.
FIX THIS WEEK.	Start one shared lead list. For every lead, record the date, name, source and what happened next. Review the list every Friday.
WHERE WE CAN HELP.	We set up a simple lead pipeline. It gives your team one place to track leads from first contact through the next step.

How a good ad marketer fixes all 7: one lead-acquisition system

Each leak can look like a separate problem. Usually, they are connected. The ad brings someone in. The website gives them a next step. The response starts the conversation. Follow-up keeps it moving. Tracking tells you what happened.

A good ad marketer looks at the full path, not only the ad. The system has four parts.

1. Ads and content that attract the right leads. Ads and content should speak to the people you want to reach. The message, the service and the next step should all be clear. The goal is not simply more clicks. It is attracting people who are a better fit for your business.

2. Instant response. When a lead reaches out, they should know their message was received. That could be a quick text, a missed-call text-back, or a simple AI assistant for common questions. A person still decides what happens next.

3. Follow-up. Not everyone books after the first conversation. Your team needs a clear plan. Who follows up? When? What do they say? When does it stop?

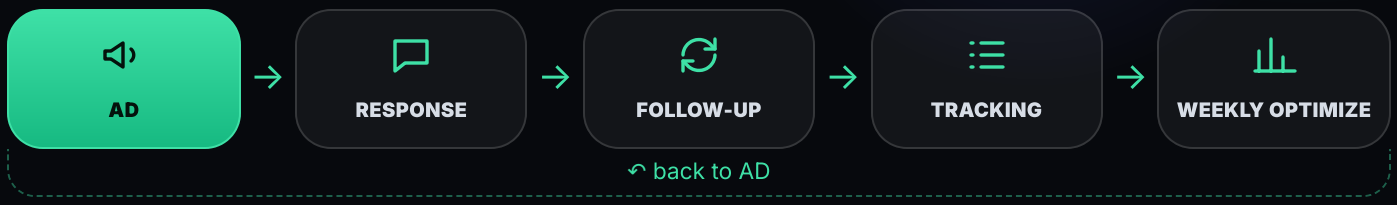

4. Tracking. Every lead should have a place to live. You should be able to see where they came from, what they asked about, who followed up and what happened next.

How they connect. The ads and content create interest. The website or landing page gives people a clear next step. Instant response starts the conversation. Follow-up keeps it moving. Tracking shows what happened, so the next round of ads can be smarter. Each part supports the others. If one part is weak, the whole process gets harder.

Who builds it. Simple Solutions Marketing builds the whole system for you: websites, Meta ads, Google ads, instant response, lead follow-up, lead tracking and simple AI assistants. We can help you set up a simple AI assistant to answer common questions and save you time. We start small and keep you in control.

How we build it for you with Facebook ads, and teach you to run it

The path we set up. We build one simple path, in five steps.

1. A Facebook ad. We aim to reach the right people in the area you serve, with one clear offer and one next step.
2. An instant text or response. When someone responds, they hear back fast. We set up a quick text or reply so they know a person got their message.
3. Follow-up. We set up a short follow-up plan, so every lead gets a clear next step.
4. Tracking. Every lead goes into one place. You can see where it came from and what happened next.
5. Weekly optimization. Each week we look at what happened and adjust.

Each week

What we look at each week. We look for:

- Which ads bring in leads that fit your business.
- Which audiences respond, and which don't.
- Which offer wording gets people to reach out.
- How fast leads hear back from you.

What we adjust. Based on what we see, we may adjust the ad, the audience, the offer wording or the reply speed. We change one or two things at a time, so we can tell what made the difference.

How the system gets better over time. Each week adds a little more to learn from. We keep what seems to work. We drop what doesn't. Over time, we aim to spend more of your effort on the ads, audiences and messages that bring in the right leads.

We teach you to run it. We meet on a weekly call. We walk through the numbers together, in plain words. We show you how to read them and what we would change. Step by step, we teach you how to manage it yourself. Your accounts stay yours. You stay in control, and you are not locked in.

What we can and can't promise. We can't promise results. No honest marketer can. What we can promise is a clear process and honest numbers every week.

Checklist: 7 leaks

Use this as a quick check for your business.

- [ ] Every missed call gets a call back or a text the same day.
- [ ] New leads get a quick reply, and one person owns them.
- [ ] Your Google Business Profile has current information, recent photos and recent reviews.
- [ ] Your website passes the phone test.
- [ ] Each ad goes to a page about the service being advertised.
- [ ] Every lead gets at least 3 follow-ups before you stop.
- [ ] Every lead is logged in one place and reviewed weekly.

Your next step. Count your checks. Every blank box is something you can improve. You don't have to fix everything at once. Choose one leak. Start there.
